

Forest Grove Historic Resource

1904 Pacific Ave - Christian Science Church

The First Church of Christ, Scientist is an important architectural feature of Forest Grove. Designed in the Georgian Revival Style by Spencer S. Beman and built in 1916, the structure is almost completely intact. James S. Loynes, a local builder constructed the church.

The church was nominated for the National Register of Historic Places in 1993 under National Register criteria B and C.

The church was built in part through the generosity of Adeline Fisk Rogers a long time benefactor of the Forest Grove Community.
